

VERIZON INTERVIEW EXPERIENCE

Name: Sabitha – 2021115087

About the company:

Verizon Communications is a global leader in communications, providing technology and services for voice, data, video, broadband, and both local and long-distance voice services. The company offers high-performance networks, including 5G, and serves a diverse customer base, including consumers, businesses, and government organizations. It also supports network access for IoT services and products. Verizon has a global presence, with business operations across the Americas, Europe, the Middle East, Africa, and Asia-Pacific.

Role offered: Software Developer

Placement Drive Experience:

Round 1: Online Test

The online test had 3 sections:

- 1: Written English Test – A topic was given, and we needed to write an essay. My topic was "What Should Adults Learn from Children."
- 2: Coding Test – Two medium-level coding questions.
- 3: Gamified Test

Round 2: Group Discussion

In this round, we were divided into groups of 12. The topic was "Is AI Decreasing Our Creativity and Impacting Our Security?" I focused on the quality of my points rather than the quantity.

Round 3: Technical interview

The technical questions were primarily based on my resume, including the projects I had worked on, the challenges I encountered, and the technical concepts involved. I was asked about difficulties I faced in my life and how I managed them.

The interviewer asked me to write code for counting duplicate elements in an array and some SQL queries related to aggregate functions, joins, and subqueries. Additionally, they asked me to explain OOP concepts, cloud computing, MVC, real-world examples of data structures, and a few questions about Splay trees. I was also asked basic questions on APIs, their types, and NLP. The interviewer made me feel comfortable, which allowed me to answer calmly.

Round 4: HR interview

The HR interview began with a self-introduction, followed by questions about my background and a few behavioral questions. I was also asked why I chose Verizon and if I had any questions for the interviewer.

Overall, I had a positive experience.

Tips:

- Be thorough with your resume, as most questions will come from it. Ensure you understand the concepts you mention, especially in projects.
- Stay calm while answering questions; if you don't know a concept, politely say you're not familiar with it.
- Have some knowledge about the company you are interviewing with
- Prepare a few questions to ask the interviewer at the end.

ALL THE BEST!!!
